PRELUDE AND PASSACAGLIA

for Flute and Piano

PROGRAM NOTE:

I composed PRELUDE AND PASSACAGLIA in collaboration with flutist Bryan Guarnuccio in the Spring of 2009. The idea behind the partnership, as well as the resulting piece, was to explore the various timbres and registers of the flute, while making it "fit well" under the fingers of the player.

The passacaglia theme is transformed through the traded variations into a new, longer, more lyrical melody carried by the flute (see Variations 16 and 17). It is this melody that provides the material for the prelude.

The performance of this piece should always prioritize the flute, with the piano clearly serving as accompaniment.

- KEVIN WILT

PERFORMANCE NOTE:

The harmonics and boxed events of the prelude are meant to guide the player to create a smeared sound. It is important that the performer not settle on any focused pitch or melodic shape, as an airy, unfocused texture is desired here as opposed to any well-defined notes or musical lines.

Approximate Duration: 6 minutes

* Smear through the harmonics, freely moving among the given fundamentals using the rhythmic and melodic contour provided below the staff. Use an unfocused sound, and avoid triadic arpeggios.

 Same idea as before, but with more energy.
